THE Confederate House succeeded in passing the naval appropriation bill last evening in tolerable good humor. But it

· THE MARINE BAND made a narrow es case in the House yesterday, but was saved, thanks to the humorous and witty speech of Hon. Carter Harrison, of Chicago.

ELSEWHERE will be found a letter from the Secretary of the Navy to the chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, which will challenge the attention of all fair-minded men. He simply demands the privilege of meeting his accusers face to face and a hearing in his own defense. This no honest committee can refuse him.

REPRESENTATIVE RAINEY, (semi-colhis peace with the Democracy by supporting the renegrade Chamberlain, has secured a promise of retaining his seat in the House. which is contested by the Hon. Sam. Lee. There is not much significance in this fact except in so far as it shows that Chamberlain and the Democracy are working together hand-in-glove.

THE SUPREME COURT a few days since decided that the Hot Springs belonged to the United States. This decision renders necessary the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the property until such time as Congress shall, by legislation, dispose of it. We understand that the entire Arkansas delegation have agreed upon, and recommended a gentleman for this position. It would seem that this action should at once secure the position to the person recommended, as the people of Arkansas have more interest and greater equities in the springs than any others.

AND NOW, to make assurance doubly sure in the way of false compilations of figures, the House Committee on the Expenditures of the Navy Department has employed the so-called statistician, Alex. Delmar, as an accountant. Every man, women and child in Washington and elsewhere, where Delmar is known, knows that he is thoroughly unprincipled and unreliable. He is, however, exactly the kind of a man to make up figures for the use of the majority in the House, which has not scrupled to make use of thieves, forgers, burglars and self-confessed disreputables as witnesses against Republican officials.

OUR GERMAN Republican friends are very active concerning the impending campaign, and deserve our hearty commendation. Although two clubs of then exist in our midst, they furnish a laudable example of unity as far as the interest of the party is concerned. We furnish our readers a translation of the leader of the Cincinnati Freie Presse of May 22, relative to a proposed German Republican conference to be held at Cincinnati on June 13. The delegates from here, elected by a German mass meeting on May 8, are F. A. Adler, editor of the Washington Journal: Peter Baumgrass. the artist; Simon Wolf, Major C. E. Behle and Capt. Wm. Burchard.

JUDGE BUCKNER'S REPORT. Bitterly partisan as is the chairman of the District Committee's report, which he has read to his committee without action on its part, the real and only question be tween the report and the Commissioners is as to the construction of the act of June 20, 1874, under which the present Comsion government was organized. The Commissioners have shown by their published answers to interrogatories of the committee, that their construction of the act was adopted on the advice of their legal counsel. If correct, each and all their acts are wholly legal. If not correct, some of their acts are of more than doubtful legal authority. But, after all, whatever mistakes, if any, they have made, grew out of the construction of the law, honestly made, and which is not denied by the chairman in his report. The report presents no fact and makes no charge impeaching, in any sense, the personal or official integrity of the Commissioners, nor any charge or intimation that each and all the work done by them has been well done and at fair prices. Where, then, are we to find the reason for the partisan and vindictive tone of the report? The only explanation is in the exigencies of the party for miserable party

That the Commissioners gave the proper construction to the act of June 20, 1874, is clearly shown by the following indorsement of the Hons. Lyman K. Buss, Jeremiah M. Wilson and Jay A. Hubbell, who were members of the Joint Investigating Committee of the last Congress who prepared and reported the act of Congress. These are all intelligent gentlemen, were prominent members of the joint commit tee, and certainly are well advised of the intention of the committee and of Congress in the passage of the act. They say: "On reading your answer to interroga-"tories of the committee, I (we) do not "see that your (Commissioners') construction of the law is different from that "hereinbefore stated." That is set forth in the following document :

LETTER FROM BON, LYMAN K. BASS.

MOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15, 1876. GENTLEMEN: In response to your inquiry of me as to my construction of certain provisions of the law of the last Congress approved June 20, 1874, providing for the government of the District of Columbia, and as to the intent of the joint committee which framed that law, in adopting and recommending such provisions to the favorable action of Congress, I beg leave to say that I think the answer is clearly and unequivocally found in the law itself. I find no ambiguity in its expressions. The object of the committee and the object of Congress was to abolish the then existing government of this District, as is provided in section one of the act, and to establish in its place a temporary government to exercise its functions until a new permanent form of government could be matured and adopted. By section two of the act certain substantial powers theretofore vested in the Governor and Board of Public Works were devolved on a commission to consist of three persons under certain limitations

It was provided that they should make no contract nor incur any obligation other than such contracts and obligations as might be necessary to the faithful administration of the valid laws enacted for the administration of the government of said District, to the execution of existing legal obligations and contracts, and to the protection or preservation of improvements existing or commenced and not completed at the time of the passage of the

Thus power to make contracts and incur obligations for those three specified purposes was conferred upon the new Commissioners to wit:

First. For the purpose of administering the laws for the government of the District. Second. For the purpose of carrying out the lawful outstanding contracts of the District. Third. For the purpose of protecting and preserving existing improvements, or such as were commenced and were incomplete. Congress, in the performance of its duty in the premises, could not well have done less. Not to have given the Commission power t incur obligations in the administration of the laws would have been equivalent to abolishing all government. Not to have conferred power and authority to carry out the lawful outstanding contracts of the District would have been an attempt to repudiate and abolish such contracts, in direct violation of the rights of citizens. The former government doubtless had the power to make valid contracts, binding the District, and as to such contracts, it was not sought to repudiate or annul them by logislative action. All questions as to what were or were not lawful contracts were remitted to the Commission, as were such other questions as pertained to the methods of execution. The Commission for these purposes and others was the executive authority of the District of Columbia, and was vested with lawful executive discretion in the exercise of its duties, such as is possessed by all executive officers. And if Congress had not given the Commission power to incur obligations necessary to take care of existing property of the District, it would have been short-sighted

On reading your answers to interrogatories of the committee, I do not see that your construction of the law is different from that heretofore stated. The means for the payment of the obligations which might be in curred in performing existing contracts were provided for in sections 6 and 7 of the law, by which it is seen that the board of audit were required to audit and settle "fourthly, claims existing or hereafter created for which no evidence of indebtedness has been issued arising out of contracts written or oral made by the Board of Public Works," and for the amount of such claim so audited the sinking fund commissioners were authorized to deliver the 3.65 bonds at par in a like sum. No other provision is made by the law for meeting such indebtedness, and none other was contemplated by the joint committee, for reasons which are fully set forth in their report.

I believe the foregoing is a response to all your inquiries on this subject.

LTMAN K. BASS. The Hon. W. Dennison, J. H. Ketcham, S. L. Phelps, Commissioners, &c. I have read the foregoing and concur in the views therein expressed.

tocracy, having had a crumb of comfort thrown them by the renegade Chamberlain, and hoping that in the not distant future he would turn over the State government to their hands, were induced to extend him many courtesies, and even condescended so far as to visit his house and epiov his wines. While they declined to permit their families to visit the Executive mansion, it was deemed no especial harm for the Prestons, Hamptons, Gareys and MacMasters to gather around the Governor's festive board. Inspired by the rare honor of having a live South Carolina aristocrat extend him such courtesies, Chamberlain at once conceived the idea of gaining admission to the circles of the farfamed and highly distinguished Hibernian Society of Charleston, an institution which Ribalt had the honor of establishing when he first led the Huguenots to the Palmetto shore. At first the Governor experienced great difficulty in finding a suitable person who would consent to present his application for admission to the society, but at last an English carpet-bagger of the name of Dawson generously tendered his services, and Chamberlain was made exceeding glad. But, alas! here his troubles began. Dozens of the Charleston elite arose to their feet, and declared that under no circumstances could the society afford to admit a person from the "dark unfathomed caves of obscurity." One lady of seventy-odd summers, who had the honor of dancing the first set with Lafayette when he visited the society in 1825, declared, in emphatic terms, that the desecration of the "Hibernian" by an obscure individual like Chamberlain would be as calamitous as the fall of Fort Sumter in 1865. "What," she exclaimed, "admit "one to our dear society who boasts upon "baving been raised on spoiled fish?

'Never; no, never!" The result of the matter was the withdrawal of the Governor's application for membership, and its prompt transmission o whence it came. In other words, the Governor received quite a number of black balls, administered with a spirit which the notorious clubs of Northern cities might emulate.

From a private letter we learn that the Governor has been equally as unsuccessful in his efforts to join the Free Masons of South Carolina. He was black-balled by the Columbia Lodge, a body which has the honor of having such names as Moses and Whipper upon its roll. Not a secret society in the State but what he has endeavored unsuccessfully to gain admission to. Report now says that he is assiduous in his attentions to the rebel Rifle Clubs of Columbia, and It is to be hoped that the brave (?) spirits who compose these harmless (?) organizations may take pity upon the unfortunate victim of black balls, and allow him to add his delectable name to their rosters. Such is the man whom the too confiding South Carolina Republicans ransformed from a needy, seedy adventurer into an apparently respectable man, only to be rewarded by his disgraceful

ERROR CORRECTED.

A very interesting and, if true, instructive article, giving "some reasons why silver does not circulate freely," appears in the last number of the Nation of May 11. The only important fault to be found with the article is the fact that it is based on a false statement as to facts. It gives a table copied from the Boston Herald, itself copied from other and perhaps higher authority, purporting to give for each of the periods, 1871, 1872, 1873, 1874, 1875 and three months of 1876, the gold value of a "dollar in subsidiary coin." (silver.) comparing the same with the "gold value of greenbacks," and making it out that the gold value of a dollar in subsidiary coin, during the first quarter of 1876, incorrectly alleged to be 86.4 cents, is less than the gold value of greenbacks for the same period, correctly stated at 88.1 cents.

The column of the table that professes to give the value of a "dollar in subsidiary coin" might be headed correctly, the market value of the quantity of silver bullion contained in a dollar of subsidiary coin.

But the value of the bullion contained in an overvalued silver token is no more truly a measure of the market value of the coin itself, than is the price of the raw nickel and copper contained in a nickel coin a measure of the market value of the coin itself, or the price of the raw material (paper) of which a greenback dollar is made a measure of the market value of the greenback dollar itself, or of its purchasing power, or the price of the paper on which s printed an English ten pound note an indication of the value in the market of such paper when duly signed and issued by the properly constituted authorities, or the price of the paper on which is written the note of hand of any respectable trader an indication of the value in the market of that security.

If the Nation really wishes to give its readers the value in the markets of New York and San Francisco of the subsidiary silver coin of the nation for the periods of time specified, it will find the information ready at hand in the current market quotations from time to time published by leading and trustworthy journals of these two cities. The expenditure of a little time in research in this direction would have prevented the utterance of the false and absolutely groundless statement that the gold value in the market of a dollar in subsidiary coin is now or had ever been below the gold value of greenbacks. We do not think or mean to imply that the Nation in making these groundless and mischievous statements intended to assert what it knew to be false, or that this usually careful journal stands alone in giving currency to the incorrect statement that the price of our subsidiary silver coin is truly represented by the table in question. It is true, as has been stated very generally heretofore, that silver bullion has of late fallen, greatly fallen, in price in the world's market, but the price of the silver bullion contained in an overvalued money token should always be kept carefully distinguished from the market value of the token

This mischlevous error is not that of the Nation alone, but is one into which the newspaper press generally has fallen, and which has passed without contradic-tion in all the debates on the silver question which have taken place in the Senate and House of Representatives during the present session of Congress.

Professor Merriman says that it is 20,000,000 years since the eozoon first built its mefs in the warm Laurentian seas. William Allen says that he remarked when the tertiary deofts were being made that the organic re mains of this species would one day delight the geologist and aid materially in discover ing the different formations of the globe. It was urged during the recent contest in Ohio that William should be Governor of the State, because he knew from personal observation just how the foundation and different strata of that great Commonwealth were formed. It was thought that it would take well with the the grangers, but it didn't.

Man lives and dies, and the world jogs on in its orbit all the same. The millionaire Stewart died just five weeks ago. To-day the same span of spanking bays at the same hour marble store into Chambers street, there to wait at the door precisely the same as when the great merchant prince was engaged in the active duties of life. Everything seems the same, except that on the inside there is another man and on the box another driver. The world moves on. The mighty bec-hive of commercial traffic, reared by the unrivaled genius of Stewart, still hums and bustles with "another man inside." Such is life.

We have a letter from D. D. Foley in answer to a paragraph which appeared in this paper yesterday morning concerning his testi-mony before the Louisians investigating committee. Mr. Foley says we have done him grievous wrong. We hope not. We think too much of even the most insignificant of the human race to do them willful injury. Life is too short and time too precious to be elevated to general misery making. But there are times when it becomes necessary to run worthless exhibitions to expose the error men make by attempting things far beyond their capacity. Mr. D. D. undoubtedly supposed that he had some great mission perform. He says he felt it a grave duty to expose to the proper authority a bare-New Orleans officials aided, for money, the Landreau brothers in the presentation of the Peruvian claim, the said action being a violation of section 1782 of the Revised Statutes, because the United States were interested in the matter. Mr. D. D. is mistaken. The claim was a private one, and the American Government had no right or interest in it whatever. And in the next place, Mr. D. D. jumps at conclusions in a very wild way. He testifies that Richard Gibbs was appointed Minister to Peru in order to secure a settlement of the great claim in the interest of Orleans office-holders. This is one of those strange phantoms that sometimes arise in the mental gaze of man which the poet calls the baseless fabric of a vision. D. D.'s mind was crowded with the idea that he had the bottom facts in the case. Bottom facts, as they exist in the imagination of witnesses who are thinking of fees, have proven a miserable drug in the committee rooms this winter. This man begged the committee to summon him, as he possessed important evidence, and after he had been heard and dismissed he appeared before it and attempted to convince them that they were wrong in considering his testimony worthless The committee were unanimous in the belief that they had been duped, or at least very

The Two German Conferences.

[From the Cincinnati Freie Presse.] We are pleased to learn that the two German Republican factions of Washington are a unit as far as the question of a conference or convention is concerned. Our readers will remember a call of the radical faction of Washington for the 10th of June. This call was not well received by the German Republican press of the country on account of its ultra radical tenor. A few days later another German Retonor. A few days later another German Re-publican faction of Washington extended an invitation, in a more moderate form, suggest-ing the 13th of June as the day for a national (German) conference, and designating the Turner hall, of Cinchnati, as the place of meeting. The resolutions accompanying the latter invitation, although finding a heartier response and indorsement than the call of the radical faction, failed to secure thus far the earnest co-operation of the German American press, for the only reason that no good result press, for the only reason that no good result could be expected from a movement which is

SILVER LEGISLATION-A MISCHIEVOUS its very beginning had to combat inimical fac-

This apprehension and cause of failure is happily obviated, both factions having united and agreed to work in harmony together at Cinctunati as far as the essential points are concerned. It is now intended to hold the German conference on June 12, at 8 p. m., and we request all delegates to convene at that time at the Turner hall, by virtue of the authority conferred on us.

Several delegations from Indiana, Iowa, Illinois &c., have already notified the Washington committee of their readiness to participate.

The principal cause of dissension being now entirely removed, we have no doubt the con-ference, under a judicious management, can make its influence felt. We have repeatedly called attention to the important mission of the German element in al politics, and it is now more than ever the time that the great majority of German should make known to the country the stand they propose taking in relation to the political questions of the day.

The intelligent Germans have heretofore adhered to the principles of the Republican party, and although many of our countrymen during the last few years have left its ranks it was not on account of their infidelity to was not on account of their infidelity ! Republican principles, but solely on account of their dissatisfaction with the leaders of the their dissatisfaction with the leaders of the party. They always remained true to Repub-lican principles, and we think a manly declara-tion of the Germans, defining their views on the political situation of the day, can, if given cinnati, have but a good and beneficial effect
